

SHOT THROUGH THE HEART.

MORE PARTICULARS OF SUNDAY MORNING'S MURDER.

The Killing of the Sailor in Paddy Hollow Being Investigated by a Coroner's Jury. The Testimony Taken Yesterday—The Victim Was a Polish Nobleman—The Inquest Adjourned Over Till This Morning.

The Messenger on Sunday morning contained a full account of the terrible murder of a fireman from the British steamship Kirkhill, who was shot and killed by Giles Anderson about 1:20 o'clock on Nutt street between Brunswick and Hanover streets.

The murdered man turns out to have been Theophil Carl von Gliszczynski, who was a fireman on the British steamship Kirkhill. He was born in Ustka, November 5, 1871, and was a Polish nobleman, as was shown by his papers. He had in his pocket a letter written Saturday night to his sweetheart and addressed: Miss Dora Dehnhart, Hanesthal, near Scherazbek, circuit Lanenbur, on Elbe.

Mr. James Sprunt, the British vice consul says he made an inquiry about the man, and states that Captain Watson, of the Kirkhill says he was of exceptionally good disposition and quiet in his habits. He was at the seamen's reading room every night and was there Saturday night till he started for the vessel. It is said he was not intoxicated, and his conduct was very good.

Coroner Jacobs summoned the following jury and the inquest into the tragedy began yesterday at 12 m., in the court house, viz: W. C. von Glah, foreman, S. J. Davis, Ira Breece, Albert Smith, colored, J. N. Swindell, colored, and Jacob Thompson, colored. C. P. Locke, Esq., who was employed by the two brothers of Giles Anderson, was in attendance to look after his interests.

Wilhelm Ellersen was sworn as the first witness and testified as follows: I know the deceased. I am a fireman on the British steamship Kirkhill. I was with deceased till 10 o'clock Saturday night. I was not with him when he got shot. I knew the deceased as Charley. I was with him in John Danhart's saloon. We had a glass of beer together. He was not intoxicated when I left him at 10 o'clock.

David Bryant, a policeman, was sworn and testified as follows: I saw Ellersen and several others with the deceased on Saturday night at Mr. Danhart's about 11:15 p. m. The reason I particularly noticed these two men, the deceased and Wilhelm Ellersen, they went into Mr. Danhart's, and Ellersen called for whiskey. Mr. Danhart told him he had too much and he wouldn't sell him any more. Ellersen insisted until he got a bottle of beer. Mr. Danhart refused to pay him. It seemed that this man wanted to treat, and after this man refused to pay for the drinks, the deceased apologized to Mr. Danhart for taking a drink that he had not been paid for. Ellersen and the deceased left the bar together and walked arm in arm till they got out of our sight. They went up North Nutt street towards the upper compass. I am positive, to the best of my belief, that this man (Ellersen) is the man who was with the deceased when they left the bar. The deceased was about two-thirds drunk. It was 11:55 p. m. when they left Mr. Danhart's.

Thomas A. Price was sworn and testified: I am a watchman at the lower freight yard of the Atlantic Coast Line. Between 1 and 2 o'clock two sailormen came by me, coming from the direction of Mr. Danhart's. One had on light pants and a cap, and one had on dark clothes and a plug hat. I never saw their faces. I could tell they were white men. I saw them at Vollers & Hargens' warehouse on Nutt street. I heard the shooting and was near by at the time, but did not know that any body was killed. There is always a good deal of shooting up there.

W. T. Spooner was sworn and testified: I am night watchman for the George L. Morton Company. On last Sunday morning, between the hours of 1 and 2 o'clock, I was sitting in the office and heard the sharp report of a pistol and quick walking or running, or rather too wide hurried footsteps. I immediately got up, took my pistol and went to the gate. On opening the gate, I saw two men running at a slow gait, one behind the other. The man in advance was dressed in light pants, dark coat and dark cap. The hindmost man was about fifty yards in the rear, within ten feet of where the murder was committed. I advanced obliquely across the street to the telegraph pole. The man in the rear going in the direction of the man in front was cursing and swearing at him. When I got close to him, he shot or ten steps of the telegraph pole, saw the deceased fall. I went up to where he laid and found that he was dead. I continued in the direction of the two men who were running, to the corner of Nutt and Brunswick streets, to find out who the parties were. The man in the rear turned around and came back to where I was standing. I recognized him as Giles Anderson, watchman for the Carolina Cooperation and Veneer Company. I says: Anderson, you have played the devil. Anderson cursed, said d—d if he cared, in a boisterous manner. I said you should for you have killed a man. He said he didn't care a God d—d, as he had struck him in the mouth and intended to shoot him. I took surveillance over Anderson. He said he was going to the cooperage mill to get a light to look for his hat. In the meantime I stepped into the office and telephoned to the city hall for officers. I went out again and helped Anderson look for his hat. We found the deceased's hat and his. He threw his away on Nutt street and kept the deceased's. It was found there when we went after him. If there had been any row there I would have heard it. Anderson told me he called for the watchman, but I never heard him. Think I would have heard him. I never heard any loud or boisterous language or quarrelling up to the time I heard the first shot. That man (Ellersen) looked like the man who was running in advance of Anderson when he was running after him. I never saw the deceased until I was eight or ten steps from him and saw him fall from the pavement into the street.

Dr. William D. McMillan testified to the facts contained in the following report of the post mortem examination, which he read:

"With Dr. Schonwald's assistance I made today an autopsy on the body of a white man said to be Theophil Carl von Gliszczynski, a fireman on the steamship Kirkhill, of Glasgow, Captain T. B. Watson. The examination showed that his death was caused by a gunshot wound, the ball entering the left breast, two inches above and anterior to the left nipple, fracturing the third rib and passing through the left ventricle of the heart, lodged in the lower position of the lower portion of the left lung."

"Respectfully," "W. D. McMillan," "Superintendent of Health."

John Danhart was sworn and testified: I think that man (Ellersen) was the man with the deceased in my place, but I am not certain. I couldn't swear to it. I don't think the deceased was there later than 10 o'clock. Ellersen was the last man to leave my place. He is not the man who bought drinks and did not pay for them.

Sergeant R. F. Gore, of the police force, was sworn and testified as follows: Sunday morning about a quarter to 2 o'clock I here came a telephone message to the city hall that a man was killed near Wilder & Morton's still yard. Myself and Sergeant Hewlett went down there. When we reached the place, I saw the deceased laying down. Somebody called to know if that was the officers. I told them yes. He says well come on here and get the man who did the shooting; come on and I'll show you the man who did the shooting. He went with us to the corner of Nutt and Brunswick streets, and pointed out the man about middle ways of the block. We pursued him and overtook him near the corner of Front and Brunswick streets. Sergeant Hewlett saw a few steps ahead of me and reached him first. We arrested him. Sergeant Hewlett took him to the guard house and I remained with the dead man. I telephoned to the city hall to the captain to send the coroner. When we reached the man I recognized him as Giles Anderson. I told him he had killed a man and he said he shot him in self defense. Anderson was drunk when we arrested him. When we started after him he ran and when we came up to him to arrest him he was stooping down.

Sergeant L. A. Hewlett of the police force was sworn, and testified as follows: "When we were chasing the man he ran and I was ahead of Sergeant Gore. Sergeant Gore followed me to shoot the man. I ran a little distance further and pulled my pistol but didn't use it. The man while running turned his head to look back at me, and he fell down the hill at Front and Brunswick streets. He got up again. I was so close on him he fell up against the fence. He threw up one hand and one foot. I told him to consider himself under arrest and I told Sergeant Gore to come on which he immediately did. I left Sergeant Gore with the dead man and I carried Anderson to the guard house. He was a white man, about 30 years of age, of medium build, dark hair, light eyes, and a mustache. He was wearing a dark coat and light pants. He was carrying a pistol in his right hand. I saw him on the ground by the fence. On the way with him to the city hall, I asked Anderson what he shot the man for. He said the man knocked him down and when he got up he shot him. I asked him how many times. He said twice. He was drunk. I got a half pint bottle of whiskey from him. He had a pistol case but no pistol. I asked him where his pistol was. He said three sailors took it away from him and ran. I went back and searched for the pistol but did not find it.

After hearing the testimony the jury took a recess until 9 o'clock this morning on account of the absence of a couple of important witnesses.

Pursuant to adjournment the jury investigating the murder of Theophil Carl von Gliszczynski, met yesterday at 9 a. m., at the court house.

Fred Neff being sworn testified as follows: I am night watchman at the Carolina Cooperation Company in the place of Giles Anderson while he was absent on leave. On last Sunday morning between the hours of 1 and 2 o'clock, I was attending to the boiler and heard two pistol shots. About five minutes after firing up I heard my name called several times. I took my lantern and went into the mill and found Giles Anderson standing up against the truck. He told me to come to the office with him so he could tell me to the city hall as some of them d—n sailors had taken his pistol away from him. I went with him to the office and called up the city hall for an officer. After that we went out on the sidewalk and found Mr. Spooner standing at the gate of the Cooperage Company. Anderson took my lantern and went to look for his hat. He found his own hat, also the dead man's hat. After that we went back towards Brunswick street. Anderson seemed to be looking for something else, but he talked very disconnectedly and I could not understand what he said as he was quarreling with Mr. Spooner because he (Anderson) had called him to come out and he had not come and that he was in the guard house. Anderson held my lantern over the dead man, but I did not see him as the electric light was out at the time and I am near sighted. We turned up Brunswick street, about half way up the block, and I took my lantern away from him, intending to go back to the boiler room. Then he told me to blow out the light at once. Failing to know why he wanted me to do this, he took the lantern away from me. He tried to blow out the light but failed to do so. Then he started to run up Brunswick street. He dropped the lantern and I caught it. On turning around, I beheld two officers coming up the hill. They asked me where the man had gone. I told them he went up the hill. They started on a run after him. Then I went back to Mr. Spooner at the corner of Nutt and Brunswick streets. By this time the officers had arrested Anderson and he was brought back to the telegraph pole in front of the Carolina Cooperation Company's office. It was then that I saw the dead man lying at the foot of the telegraph pole. Anderson said he had shot the man after he (the deceased) had struck him. About a half hour after the shooting a man came along from the direction of the Carolina Central depot and looked in the dead man's face and asked the police officer in German if the man was dead. I told him in German, yes, he was dead, shot through the heart. He asked who had killed him and I told him Giles Anderson had killed him. I asked him if he knew the dead man and he said he is one of my shipmates of the steamer Kirkhill. I asked him of what nationality the dead man was, and he shrugged his shoulders as if he did not know. I asked him if he was with the dead man at the time of the shooting. He said "no." My reason for asking him the question was because he (the man I was talking to), answered the description given by the two watchmen to me. I think that Henry Mafmeyer is the name of the man that spoke to me and asked me if the man was dead, but I will not swear that he is the man. He then left and went in the direction of the Atlantic Coast Line freight yards. I then went back into the cooperage yard. I asked Anderson about 9 o'clock Saturday afternoon for his pistol and he refused to give it to me.

S. Sigurdsson was sworn and testified as follows: I was with the deceased on Saturday night between 7 and 8 o'clock at the sailors' reading room. I left him there writing a letter and I have never seen him since that time. I and William Ellersen were together at Danhart's about 12 o'clock Saturday night. We left the saloon together. We went aboard our ship, the Kirkhill.

H. Mafmeyer being sworn testified as follows: I know the deceased. The last time I saw him was about 9 o'clock Saturday night at Williams' hotel saloon on Grace street. I left him there and I went with the steward to Gieschen's on Front and Dock streets. The deceased was drinking but not drunk. I did not see him any more that night. The mate notified me next morning about 7 o'clock that one of my shipmates was dead. I came ashore and went and looked at him and then went back aboard.

The testimony was completed about 11:30 o'clock a. m., and the jury immediately rendered the following verdict: "That the deceased, F. C. von Gliszczynski, came to his death by a gunshot wound at the hands of Giles Anderson."

As soon as the verdict had been rendered, coroner Jacobs gave the sheriff a commitment to hold the Anderson without bail. Deputy Sheriff W. W. King went over to the city hall a few minutes to 12 o'clock and the city authorities surrendered Anderson into his hands. He was then carried to jail.

J. C. Berry, one of the best known citizens of Spencer, Mo., testifies that he cured himself of the worst kind of piles by using a few boxes of DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. He had been troubled with piles for over thirty years and had used many different kinds of so-called cures; but DeWitt's was the one that did the work and he will verify this statement by his own wishes to write him. To Be Hanged Friday
Sheriff M. J. Ward, of Columbus county, arrived in the city yesterday on his way to Raleigh with three convicts for the penitentiary. Two of them were Geo. Wortham and Hayes Alexander, both colored, convicted in the superior court at Whiteville last week and each sentenced to seven years in the penitentiary for breaking into and robbing the railroad warehouse and express office at Chadbourne. Alexander stated to The Messenger representative that he committed the crime and that Wortham had nothing to do with the robbery. He says he gave Wortham the razor that was stolen and which was found in Wortham's possession and led to his implication in the robbery. He states that he testified to that fact at the trial, but the jury convicted Wortham anyway.

The other convict was Jim Haynes, who pleaded guilty to murder in the second degree for killing young Lee at Whiteville, and had been brought back from the penitentiary to testify in another case involving the murder. It will be remembered that at the first trial he was convicted and sentenced to be hanged, but at the second trial he turned state's evidence and was allowed to put in a plea of murder in the second degree. He is serving a term for thirty years. His nephew, Lon Haynes, who was convicted of the murder of Lee and sentenced to be hanged, but was respited to enable him to testify in the other case last week, was re-sentenced by Judge Melver to be hanged next Friday.

One Youth Kills Another
Mr. O. Martindale arrived in the city yesterday afternoon to inform Coroner Jacobs of an accidental homicide yesterday afternoon about 1 o'clock on the new Federal Point road, in Federal Point township, about seven miles from the city.

Mr. Martindale informs us that while Owen Horne, the 16-year-old son of Mr. H. L. Horne, was out hunting with John Craig, son of Mr. S. F. Craig, a tenant on Mr. Horne's place, a covey of partridges crossed the road in front of them. Young Horne raised his double barrel shot gun to fire into the birds, and just as he pulled the trigger young Craig stepped in front of the gun and received the entire charge of shot in the left side of his head. His brains were blown out, and his distressed young friend ran home a mile and reported the terrible occurrence.

When the people reached young Craig he was still alive and they carried him to his home on Mr. Horne's place, where he resided with his parents. He died about 3:45 p. m. as Mr. Martindale was leaving for the city. The parents of both boys are greatly distressed over the terrible affair and it has cast a gloom over the entire neighborhood where all the parties are known.

Coroner Jacobs will go down to Mr. Horne's place tomorrow.

SPORTSMEN DISAPPOINTED

FIRST DAY OF THE OPEN SEASON TOO STORMY FOR HUNTING

The Supreme Court Still Holding Back Its Decision in the Indictment Against Satterfield, the Legislative Clerk—Co-Operative Republicans Say Butler Must "Go Elsewhere"—Farmers to Purchase Small Amounts of Fertilizer for Next Crop

Raleigh, N. C., November 1. The partridge hunters, who for weeks had looked with fond anticipation to-day, the opening of the shooting season were disappointed, for last night and today rain fell in torrents. Every drop of it is needed, for the streams, which rose a little, were again very low Sunday, so thirsty was the earth after the long drought.

The supreme court will tomorrow take up the docket of appeals from the sixth judicial district.

The supreme court has never filed a decision in the case of Satterfield, the principle clerk in the lower house in 1895, who was convicted in the superior court here of fraud in connection with the passage of the assignment act.

Invitations were received today to the marriage of Miss Louise Knight, daughter of Major John G. D. Knight, U. S. A., of Willet's Point, N. Y., to Lieutenant George Pierce Howell, of the corps of engineers, U. S. A. Lieutenant Howell is a native of Goldsboro, N. C.

Republicans who go in for co-operation with the populists say that Butler must be eliminated; that "he can take his faction of the party and go wherever he likes."

The discharge of John Reid from custody in connection with the charge of attempted assault upon Miss Cole at Rockingham, leaves John Evans in jail here, the only man now held on that charge.

The filling of cases in the two new rooms at the state museum is now in progress. They will contain over 8,900 specimens of ores and minerals.

The capacity of the sulphuric acid works at the Caraleigh phosphate works here is being doubled.

Farmers say they propose to make very light purchases of fertilizers next spring. They spent $4,000,000 this year in this direction, and by reason this fact have been quite badly pushed in many cases.

The Board of Commissioners
The board of commissioners of New Hanover county met in regular session yesterday at 2:30 p. m., all the members being in attendance—Chairman F. W. Foster and Commissioners Moore, Alexander, Dempsey and Nixon.

The minutes of the last regular meeting were read and approved.

The report of Colonel John D. Taylor was received, to the effect that he had received and turned over to the county treasurer $5 incorporation tax from the Kiddier Lumber Company.

C. W. Norwood, register of deeds, submitted his report for October, showing that during the month he issued twenty-four marriage licenses, and had turned over to the county treasurer $22.30 in fees for the same.

Dr. W. D. McMillan, superintendent of health, made his report for October and the same was placed on file.

Mr. M. W. Jacobi appeared before the board and asked that the assessment on the west part of lots 5 and 6, block 101, be reduced from $2,000 to $1,500, by reason of the fact that the house on lot 5 had been torn down. Granted.

A petition from John O. Nixon, stating that he was 50 years of age October 5th, and asking that he therefore be exempted from poll tax, according to law, was rejected, as the tax was listed prior to his reaching the age of 50.

Upon application, the board appropriated three-fifths of $168.75 to pay for furniture, shades, table covers, pillows, etc., for the city hospital, the city to appropriate the other two-fifths.

On motion, Robert Bowden, Rund McMillan and James Donnelly, were exempted from poll tax on account of physical disability.

A petition from Cato Waddell for relief from taxes was referred to the register of deeds, with instruction to report at the next meeting of the board.

On motion, the bank stock listed by Mrs. Mary Haigh, of Fayetteville, was stricken out, she being non resident.

On motion, the matter of furnishing the office of the county physician with a stove and the county home a range, was left to Chairman Foster and Commissioners Moore.

There being no further business, the board adjourned, subject to the call of the chairman.

Going Back for His Banjo

Upon a telegram from Sheriff Smith, of Rockingham, John Reid, the colored banjo picker who was arrested on suspicion of being the assailant of Miss Cole at Rockingham and was brought here for safe keeping, was discharged from jail Sunday morning. He was glad to get out of jail and on the streets during the day he entertained crowds of colored people by telling them of his narrow escape from the lynchers. He says it was a good thing for him that the sheriff took him off the train at Hamlet instead of going on to Rockingham with him the day he was arrested, as the lynchers held up the train between Hamlet and Rockingham, and also held up the next train that passed up. He left here Sunday afternoon for Maxton to join Dr. Will Blanton, of Greenville, S. C., a medicine man for whom he plays the banjo. He said he was going from Maxton to Rockingham to get his banjo. One darkey looked at him in astonishment, and said, "Nigger, I wouldn't go back to Rockingham if that was the only instrument in de world!"

THE OUTLOOK IN OHIO

Democrats Claim the Election of Today on President—Republicans Offering Bets on Carrying Hamilton County

Cincinnati, November 1.—The last day of the Ohio campaign has been so inclement that most of the outside meetings were abandoned. A cold rain set in Sunday night and continued all over the state without cessation. The indications are that it will continue tonight and that there will be clear and cold weather tomorrow for the election. Although there has been a long drought throughout the Ohio valley, the smaller streams are high tonight and there will be bad results in the rural districts tomorrow. Some predict the rains will prevent the farmers from working and thus secure as large a vote as fairer weather. This is what is known as an "officer" in Ohio. The years following presidential elections are called "off years." Following the election of Hayes in 1876 the democrats carried Ohio in 1877 for Bishop for governor and a legislature that made George Pendleton, democrat, senator.

Following the election of Cleveland in 1884, the republicans carried the state in 1885 for Foraker for governor and Sherman for senator. Following the election of McKinley in 1896 the democrats in 1897 elected Campbell governor and secured a legislature that made Brice senator.

Following the election of Cleveland in 1892, came a great triumph of McKinley for governor and the return of Sherman to the senate; and the democrats now say that following the election of McKinley in 1896, history will repeat itself on the record of "off years," being against the party that is in power, and tonight they are also talking of "off weather."

The democrats are claiming Hamilton county by a large plurality and, on account of its fourteen members of the legislature, they also claim a majority in that body for the election of a United States senator.

The republicans claim a large plurality on their state ticket and that they will have a majority in the legislature without Hamilton county. The republicans here tonight are offering bets even on electing their candidates for the legislature in Hamilton, but they concede that the result for the county officers will be close.

The Union Pacific Sold
Omaha, Neb., November 1.—The Union Pacific road proper, including the buildings and all that goes to operate the system, was this morning sold to the reorganization committee for the sum of $3,525,522.76. This amount does not include the sinking fund in the hands of the government and taking this to be $4,036,400, the amount stated in the government decree covering the sale of the road, the total paid for the property was $7,561,922.76. There were no other bidders and the road went to the reorganization committee without opposition.

Under the terms of the sale, the purchasers have ninety days in which to pay over the full amount of the purchase money, and that part of the transaction will be carried out in New York in the future. The government has now the sinking fund of the road and the amount of the guarantee check put up by the reorganization committee. This is just about 10 per cent. of the full purchase price of the road.

Tomorrow at the same time and at the same place as the sale today was held, another sale will be held under the foreclosure of the trust deed securing the construction bonds which constitute the first lien on the road.

Mr. J. W. Murchison's Safe Robbed
Last Wednesday while Mr. J. W. Murchison was absent from his store at dinner, a sneak thief entered the counting room which is in the middle of the building, and robbed the safe of about $175 in money and several checks and valuable papers. It is supposed that the robbery was committed while the clerks were busy. When Mr. Murchison returned he found that the money drawer of the safe had been taken out, and the money stolen and a lot of papers scattered over the floor.

Deputy Sheriff J. P. Flynn on yesterday arrested Arthur White, a young negro boy about 12 or 13 years of age, on the charge of committing the robbery. He also arrested Richard Herring and Charley Fisher, two other colored boys about White's age, as witnesses against him.

White will have a hearing this morning before Justice John J. Fowler. He is one of the gang of youthful thieves who have been before the criminal court for every term for three or four years.

After Richard Herring was arrested it turned out that he was the third boy implicated in the robbery of Mr. Hiram Moore's store on Saturday night and whom Mr. Moore fired at when he ran away from the door.

Supreme Court Decisions
(Special to The Messenger.)

The supreme court files the following opinions: State vs. Cameron, from Chatham, remanded; Pinlayson vs. Kirby, from Wayne, remanded; Smith vs. Montague, from Wake, motion to dismiss appeal denied; Herndon vs. Railroad, from Durham, motion for new trial for newly discovered evidence allowed; Edwards vs. Railroad, from Wake, error; State vs. Daniel, from Granville, affirmed; Bank vs. School Committee, from Durham, new trial; Bank vs. Walker, from Durham, new trial; State vs. Webster, from Chatham, affirmed; Robinson vs. Sampson, from Wayne, new trial; Short vs. Yelverton, from Wayne, new trial; Goodwin vs. Caraleigh Works, from Wake, affirmed; Singer Manufacturing Company vs. Draughan, from Wake, error.

Strychnine Found in the Stomach
(Special to The Messenger.)

Raleigh, N. C., November 2.—State Chemist Withers went to Tarboro today, taking the stomach of Fred Keel, who was poisoned there last May. Ben Fields, a negro, gave Keel two pills which he said a white man named Alford had given him. Strychnine is found in Keel's stomach. The trial takes place tomorrow and Withers is an expert witness.

Among the arrivals today are Jas. A. Lockhart, Wadesboro; J. H. Gorr, Jr., Wilmington; Barie Humphrey and P. C. Humphrey, Goldsboro; H. S. Fentress, Raleigh.

COLD WEATHER

Brings Relief to Yellow Fever Infected Districts—Prospects of Frost—All Records Reduced Except Number of Deaths at New Orleans.

Mobile, Ala., November 1.—Nine new cases, no deaths, and five recoveries is the report of the first day of the month. The total cases to date are: 264; deaths, 25; under treatment, 47.

From Whistler 19 cases are under treatment. There was 1 death there Sunday.

From Mount Vernon, the death of J. B. Sproggins is announced.

Wagar, Ala., has up to yesterday, had 40 cases and 3 deaths.

Four new cases are reported at Flomation, Ala.

The temperature has been steadily falling all day and tonight is felt the first wintry air of the season. It is generally predicted that there will be a heavy frost before morning.

New Orleans, November 1.—From now on the number of yellow fever cases will gradually decrease, is the opinion of the board of health officials. The anxiously waited cold wave arrived here last night and even colder weather is wished for tomorrow. The local forecast official has predicted that frost will fall in the northern portion of Louisiana tonight.

The cold snap has had the effect of increasing the mortality and also has caused the number of new cases to swell somewhat. It is generally believed, however, that tomorrow will show a decided improvement in the situation.

Montgomery, Ala., November 1.—The official bulletin of the board of health today chronicles only one new case of yellow fever for the past twenty-four hours, F. E. Yarbrough, and one death, R. Weathers. Mr. Weathers contracted his case at work as a cotton man in the infected district. The fact that there has been only one new case in the last twenty-four hours shows the beneficial influence of the change in the weather. It commenced raining yesterday and rained hard last night. This morning it commenced clearing off and became colder. The thermometer has been under sixty all day, and a cool wind has been blowing from the northwest. The indications are that it will be quite cold in the morning, and if there is no wind, there will be a good frost. Every body feels that the epidemic is practically over. The chances are there will be few, if any, more cases, and these probably from houses in which families have been exposed.

The official report from Selma is: No new cases, and no deaths. The only patient under treatment, Miss Pearson, is in a critical condition with the chances against her recovery.

Jackson, Miss., November 1.—The state board of health tonight issued the following official statement: One new case of yellow fever is reported from Edwards and three from Nitta Yuma. There are no new cases at the other infected points. From Durant is reported one case.

THE LAST SAD RITES
Over the Remains of the late Henry George, a Simple, Unpretentious Funeral—Tribute to His Memory From Friends

New York, November 1.—After a short, simple funeral service, the body of Henry George was finally laid to rest in Greenwood cemetery today. Only a few persons were present at the family residence. The ceremonies today were the antithesis of yesterday's. In the home overlooking the narrows, where Mr. George had lived and worked there was no trace of mourning. In accordance with the expressed wishes of the dead man, every bit of crape had been removed from the house. The Rev. Dr. John W. Kramer, of Bath Beach, conducted the funeral service. After reading part of the Episcopal service for the dead, Dr. Kramer paid a touching tribute to Mr. George. He alluded to the fact that today was All Saints', and therefore, a fitting occasion to commit the remains of Henry George, one of the greatest of latter day Christian saints, to the grave. Dr. Kramer testified to the personal religion of Mr. George. The power of religion in social problems was questioned by a man who was talking with Mr. George. With flashing eyes, George replied: "If religion be nothing more than you think it to be, our cause is lost, because there is reality in religion and we can appeal through it to humanity, we shall never get back God's land for God's poor children."

After the Lord's prayer had also been paid a personal tribute to the departed. He said it seemed as if they were standing by the triumphal car of some Roman hero rather than by the pier of a dead philosopher, and concluded by declaring that Henry George and the cause he espoused were more alive than ever today in the heart of democracy.

Just after 11 o'clock the coffin was closed, taken up into the rain and placed in the hearse. Only members of the family and intimate friends accompanied the remains to the cemetery.

(Special to The Messenger.)

Raleigh, N. C., November 1.—The case of John B. Hussey against The News and Observer for libel, set for a hearing in the superior court here today, was postponed to the February term on account of the absence of Senator Butler and ex-Senator Ransom, who are important witnesses.

Hurt While Boarding a Train
Mr. G. F. Harper, who drives an ice wagon for Messrs. W. E. Worth & Co., and resides on Seventh street between Bladen and Harnett streets, while coming from his dinner yesterday at 12:40 p. m., met the incoming train on the Newbern road near Seventh street. In trying to get aboard the train while it was in motion he was thrown to the ground and received two small cuts on the head and had his left collar bone dislocated. He was carried home and Dr. Schonwald was called and dressed his wounds. A Messenger reporter called at the house and found him resting quietly. He hopes to be out in a few days.
